A PARENTAL LETTER .- The following letter was written by a father to his son at col-

My Dear Son-I write to send your new socks which your mother has just knit by cutting down some of mine. Your mother sends you ten dollars wi hout my knowledge, and for fear you would not spend it wisely, I kept back half, and only send you five. Your own mother and I are well, except that your sister has got the measels, which we think would spread among the other girls if Tom had not had them before, and he is the only one left. I hope you will do honor to my teaching; if you do not, you are a don key, and your mother and myself are your affectionate parents"

ONE OF LAMB'S JOKES .- Charles Lamb was invited to meet at dinner a new aspirant for poetic honors, and the poems were shown to Lamb a little before the author's arrival. When he came he proved to be empty and conceited. During dinner Lamb fell into the delightful drollery of saying, now and again. "that reminds me of some verses I wrote when I was very young," and then quoted a line or two which he recollected, from the gentleman's book, to the latter's annazement and indignation. Lamb, immensely diverted. capped it all by introducing the first lines of Paradise Lost, " of man's first disobedience," as also written by himself, which actually brought the gentleman to his feet bursting with rage. He said he had sat by and allowed his own "little verses" to be taken without protest, but he could not endure to see Milton pillaged.

THE BATTLE OF SODOWA .- This is the great battle of the European war. It was fought with distinguished bravery by both Prussians and Austrians, and the victory has given to the Prussians great reputation. desperate character of the battle, may be imagined, when we see it stated by the London Times, in describing the fight in the woods above Sodowa, that: 'The 27th Prussian regiment went in nearly three thousand strong. with ninety officers, and came out of the further side with only two officers and between three hundred and four hundred men standing; all the rest were kill d'or wounded -The other regiments of this division also suf fered much, but not in the same proportion, but the woods were carried,

of the Pulmonary Organs.

This Syrup is an invaluable remedy for the alleviation and cure of Pulmonary Diseases, It is prompt in its action, pleasant to the taste, and from its extreme mildness, is peculiarly applicable to the use of children and persons in delicate health. As an anodyne expectorant, it will always be found to be beneficial, by alleviating and arresting the severest spells of coughing so distressing to the patient.
The afflicted can rely upon its doing as much, or more than any other remedy in soothing the nerves, facilitating expectoration, and healing the Diseased
Lungs, thus striking at the proof of el diseased ore than any other remedy in soothing the nerves, ilitating expectoration, and healing the Diseased aga, thus striking at the root of all diseases and eradicating it from the system.

All we ask is a trial of this preparation, as it has no equal in its effects, and never fails to give entire satisfaction to all who use it. We warrant it in all cases or the money refunded. Try it -- only 25 and 50 Cents a Bottle.
